Lawrence CommunityWorks Residency Program

Residency Application

The Residency Program is part of the Lawrence CommunityWorks (LCW) Family Network. The objective of LCW is to build an ever-expanding network of people who are exploring and shaping their own future. More than programs or projects, LCW strives to create an environment rich in connectivity, creativity and support, shaped by the people themselves.

The purpose of the LCW Residency Program is to have college seniors and recent college grads as part of LCW’s everyday operation and culture, serving as role models, mentors, or colleagues to people in the different programs. For our Movement City Youth Network members, Residents actively embody the paths that college provides. For other Departments of LCW, Residents lend their time and talent to support LCW’s mission and strategic goals.

The Residency Program provides living space for one to two years to current college seniors or recent graduates who come from diverse fields of study and different backgrounds. (If applicant interested in continuing in the Residency Program he/she must re apply.) In return for free living space, Residents commit time to LCW as instructors, facilitators, or assistants with different LCW programs, departments, projects and activities. Residents are considered employees who are compensated through housing. It is expected that Residents will utilize the Residency to ultimately transition to the next phase of their personal and professional lives.

In rare cases LCW may decide to accept a Resident who is not a college student or graduate, if they have a compelling and productive creative path that they are following; in such cases support and advice toward potential college matriculation will be provided.
